ONLINE TRANSCRIPT FOR IMZAIA.WORLD

And so it is.

Greetings my beloved, I am Da Pah Ekara San, Sovereign Servant of Free Energy.

I am here to bring you a message of love, peace, serenity, and balance. A message that is meant to liberate your soul, your spirit, from that which you have called the prison of the mind. Mind is indeed an energy that defines things. And in this series called 'Mastering the Grand Illusions,' by now you should know that the illusion in itself is nothing more than the definition that you give to the attributes of that which you have called 'life.'

This is indeed a sweet place that we are in right now. This room, you might feel it, even where you are sitting as you are listening to this message at a later time, this room is filling up with those that you have called the Lemurians. They are all here in this magical place that you call Mount Shasta, California, USA. It is one of those focal points, points of energetic stability, you could say, where it is still possible for those that you call the Lemurians to exist in a place of universal love. Many other places on this planet Earth don't offer this possibility anymore, because the energy simply is not right for it, no longer at least. Energy has been undone of its most stable forces that would allow universal energy to be filtered through it, from beyond that which you call the veil.

The Veil Explained

Today I would like to communicate about this veil thing, and what it is all about. So many years, you have been speaking about the veil, you have been talking about going beyond the veil, going home. You should know that many of the words that we have used over the years, come from a similar source. The word veil then is nothing else than that which you have labeled the mind. It is the mind which is clouding your view. It is the mind which is closing off your sight so to speak.

Your senses are all tuned into the possibility of seeing All That Is, seeing your full energy. It is the mind, as you know, that is keeping your senses from true translation of the energy that is around you. So this veil then could be called the mind. The mind is a prison of definition.

By now the room has completely filled up with millions of Lemurians. You might call them angels, you might call them divine, they are no different than you. As you have lived on this continent before, you have walked the sandy beaches of Lemuria, seen the golden waters of Lemuria. You have understood that within this Lemurian realm every day was a sunny day, for the sun at that point in time was still emitting from within. And you were not dependent from a thing hanging in the sky that one day might give you warmth, and another day might be clouded by clouds all around you. You are continuously being defined at this stage in your evolutionary process. And this series, as you know, is meant to help you get beyond that type of definition once again.

What is keeping you from it then? The last few ekaraias that opened this series, we have given you a lot of spiritechnical information. We have given you things to ponder about, things that you might have already forgotten by now, because they have no place within the mind. The mind will not allow this knowledge, this intimate knowledge to be stored within it. For the mind does not allow to store anything that to it would be a virus, and that is what this information truly is all about isn't it? It is a virus for the mind. It is an explosion that would help you break the walls of your prison. That is why it is sometimes very difficult to remember all of this information.

Today I will not simply be presenting this information on my own. I am here with my brother, him that you have called Da Adama San, High Priest of Telos, and as such, now residing in the High Council of Twelve, which actually governs and assists the Lemurian heritage that you are about to step back into, in fact, you are about to recreate. So, let me and my brother Da Adama San provide you now with the rest of this information.

You have been taught about the I Am geometry, which would be the triangle, and within the triangle the circle, and within the circle the infinity symbol. You have been taught about the 144 strands of DNA, you have been taught about Akeneic energy, and how the Akeneic energy streams throughout the timelines, streams back and streams forth through it. It offers you quite a different perspective on life, and as you will know very shortly, the being that you are beginning to know as Da Solarys San, will start coming in, hopefully, in the coming weeks to teach you more about all of these things. But first it is my duty, my honored duty at that, and that of my brother to help you redefine or undefine your prison. So as you have been given a lot of spiritechnical information about all of this, about what illusions truly are, and how they operate, and how every illusion, be it form, be it exchange, be it time or space, be it death, ties into that master illusion if you could call it that, which is a farce in itself, but let us call a master illusion: the illusion of separation. How these things are all connected, you know this now.

Undefining the prison then, means understanding where these illusions are coming from. And today we will not give you a spiritechnical message, it will be a poetic one, so that you may learn how to work with this through the heart, for your heart is truly an artist, your heart is truly a poet is it not?

The Essence of Art

Some of you here have talked about poetry today. You know that any type of art cannot be thought of before it comes into existence. So, the very essence of art does not have a prior moment in time and it does not have a future. At least when it is truly art and when it is being conceived as art. For when the poet is finished writing his poem, or when the painter is finished with her painting it becomes a thing of unity consciousness. It is no longer something of the artist.

In Lemuria when such a creation was put into place in the real world, it had no name of an artist lingering around it somewhere. A piece of music, a painting, a poem, a landscape that was created, it had no name, maybe only the name 'God', or the name, 'Spirit', or the name 'Consciousness', yes, but no name that had anything to do with identity. And as such the piece of art, the work of art, has no future. It is always in the now. And even when the artist were to leave the planet, it remained in the now, ready to be seen, heard, experienced, read, yet again by somebody else.

And the true pieces of art that still remain powerful today, and you have many throughout your history on this planet Earth, are still fresh. They are not bound by a timeframe, space-time continuum, although the professors in your universities - because as I understand studying art has now become a type of teaching as well, and there is a knowledge base behind it, which is ridiculous! - so your professors would want you to define this art and they will look at it from a point of time and space when it was created. And then they will say, they will tell you, 'oh, the artist that painted this, when he was painting it actually had just left his wife, or his child had died, and that is why he created this piece of art.' Oh yes, yes, that might have been the stimulus that initiated the art, but it is not the goal of the art. Art always remains fresh.

Creating your life should always be seen from a perspective of freshness therefore. Every single moment. And next year, as you will be introduced, no longer to the Cosmic Manifest, that is coming to an end almost, but to that which you will then call the Divinity Manifest, which will be headed by Da Solarys San and some others, you will see, you will start to experience this freshness, this new approach to life which is actually an authentic one.

A piece of art is never meant to be defined by a past moment, it is never meant to be seen as a concept, it is what it is in the moment that it is being perceived. It does not matter what was going through the mind of the artist, if it was a good piece of art, nothing was going through the mind of the artist you see. It does not matter if the artist was living in Brazil, or if he was married. In short, the identity, the personality, the life story of the artist doesn't matter.

Why then have we called you energy artists, energy weavers? Because your identity and your personalities, they don't matter. Not when you are looking at your life as a work of art, in the freshness of it. And so also, you have a unique opportunity here to look at others around you from the same perspectives as you could look at yourselves. If you see all the others around you that are constantly creating the freshness of their life as a work of art, they also carry no past, and they also carry no future, you see? That is what you can do with life. That is how you decomplexify your life, how you make it simple, simplicity, how you become fully aware of the power of the now.

The poet wrote his poem, the painter painted her painting for you to observe in the now without any type of prior attachment, not by the artist, and not by you. Knowing this introduction, let us look then at why the illusions have become defined, why time and space, and form, and exchange, and death, life in essence - you could call the illusion of death the illusion of life - and in the end separation, why these things have become defined?

Expectation of the Unified Mind

I will give you an insight now into the prior ekaraias, the prior teachings that you have listened to, in this series of 'Mastering the Grand Illusions', and it has to do with expectation. The thing that is defining your reality is the expectation of the unified mind. It helps you, or it forces you, I should say, to wake up in the morning, and to have an expectation of the place that you are waking up into, the things that are around you then. I am not even going to talk about the rest of the day that you might wake up into. I am just going to talk about that one moment of awakening, which of course is not just the moment of awakening in your bed. This is a metaphor for the concept of awakening in itself, a spiritual type of awakening.

If you expect things to be there in a certain fashion, the way that you have been taught, the way that you remember things in your third brain, you cannot be free, you are stuck. You expect the forms around you to be a certain way. You expect exchange between one entity, which is you and the other, to happen in a certain way. You expect time to behave, and space to behave in a certain way. You expect life to have death. And you expect the notion of separation in your lives. It has become the norm, has it not? And people actually celebrate these things, why would they not? I am not talking about people that are living their lives like all of you are, I am talking about your governments, I am talking about your leaders. They would celebrate that you have been trained into a type of slavery, which we would now call expectation.

If you expect reality to behave a certain way, then you actually are predictable, as a race, as a family, as a person. You are a creature of habit, you are a predictable entity, and so this is used by those who would govern you, and who would tell you that they have your best interest in mind when they create the rules for you, when they create the world for you. Expectation and the predictable nature of humanity are things, which the Lemurian, which is in this room right now, and myself, would laugh about. I am sure if Da Ojadasan'ka Adamus Valen San were here right now you would hear one of his quirky laughs, because the predictable nature of humanity is so funny really!

You have this entire platform, this entire spectrum available to you and yet, without a doubt, those that would govern you, know beforehand this person is going to just walk this tiny little frequency of the spectrum, and they celebrate it! The other day, as Da Jeshua San and the Trinity team, part of the fellowship, were traveling throughout the United States there was a commercial on the radio. It was about a type of credit card, and the commercial voice boasted that there is a type of credit card to celebrate every personality. Celebrating every personality... Why would you celebrate a prison?

If you work with Akeneic energy, there is no such thing as a past or a future, you know this now. Because the moment of the Akene itself, the moment in which the Akene - which basically is you - is experiencing a field, it is immediately sent into the past as you know, it is immediately sent into the future. So, there is no expectation, there can be no predictable nature to humanity at that point, and this is why we are teaching you about these illusions.

You must begin to understand by now dear, dear human, dear master I should say, you must begin to understand by now that if you truly look at all of these things, that you have called illusion, it is not about erasing all of them. It is not about erasing time, it is not about erasing space and all the other illusions, it is about undefining them. And that is the path of mastery. Later on you will be taught about the path of divinity, which is a final step. You will see this, but right now you must be aware of the fact that nothing that is free can ever be erased from your lives. It can take on a very unexpected form, yes, unexpected, unpredictable. It is the unpredictable nature of the soul that is, in fact, the freedom of it, you see. The unpredictable nature. And this is something to celebrate, not your personality, not your identity.

My god, how boring it is to see a person walk into your room, or waking up next to you every day, and you know exactly who this person is, you know exactly how they are going to respond, you know exactly what buttons to push if you want something done, for instance. If you want that person to take out the trash, you know exactly what to say.

Do you know exactly what to do, however, when you want to experience universal love together, or joy, or freedom? No, no, because these things do not let themselves be defined, they do not allow definition. Universal love in itself is something, which is greater than your body. It is even greater than your soul, greater even than that, which you have labeled Unity Consciousness. And it is greater, grander than that, which you have labeled the I Am awareness.

What if we were to tell you that it is this type of love, and joy, and freedom, that are the building blocks for the field of I AM awareness, and if these building blocks can never be defined, that means that the field itself can never be defined. But Universal Love, or Joy, or Freedom will never show up in the field of experience which is Earth as it is being lived today. It can't, it can't.

Even when I, Da Pah Ekara San, or Da Adama San here, who is in the candle right now, would be here on this Earth as we are here right now speaking to you in this body, even from this perspective we are unable to fully experience, or give you the sense of Universal Love. It is just not being supported by the planet! Although, Da Gaia San would want nothing more for all of you to raise that consciousness again. That is the pregnant planet like others would say. Da Gaia San is pregnant with something as simple as a Universal desire. It is a divine desire to raise the energy, to raise the consciousness. And you are acting on this, so you basically are defining - in a good way this time - the time of birth when this consciousness might raise itself. And you are choosing to either act upon this, or not to act upon this.

The Truth Behind the Words

Many who are listening right now to this recorded message are thinking, 'this is strange, I am sitting here with my booklet ready, ready to start noting down all these schematics, all these little diagrams about Akeneic energy and now I am getting this message of something that it seems, I have already heard before. Oh, there is a nice sentence there, and there is a nice sentence there, oh, I might put this sentence on paper because I might use it sometime on my website, or wherever, fascinating!'

No, it is not the sentences you should be listening to at this point, the sentences you know. The things that are being said, you know. It is the truth behind the words which enables you to find the intent behind your action, and that, at this stage should be becoming important. I know nothing more than you do, I have no more experience in all of this than you do. It is time that you should start looking towards yourselves, not towards the schematics that I might draw, or the sentences that I might say. I can give you 50'000 ekaraias to come about Mastering the Grand Illusions, which no worries, we won't get into, or a 100'000. We can talk about this straight into infinity! That is not the point.

As you might have noticed, other beings that came in, such as an alternate life of myself, the life of Da Pah Kwan Yin San, or the being that you know as Da Hana Satya San that has spoken just recently, or the great dragons, one of which we are very close by to, energy of Da Shasaya San, have all given you messages of action, invited you into action. You must know that you are standing in front of a year which can either redefine anything, or undefine everything. That is the potential of the year that is to come in.

Great beings that have been on this planet for so many, so many eons, that have been working with the planet, magnetic masters like Da Kryon San, for instance, have left now, just for a while, to redefine, or undefine themselves even further, and they have done this by your requests. Now I ask you, if they are leaving, what are you doing here. They have not gone anywhere, it is not that they had to pack their bags and see what stuff they would take, and what stuff not to take, that they booked a ticket, an airline ticket on Divinity Airways or something, and that they have checked in, they have gone through customs, and that they are now flying back to the Great Central Sun. This is not what happened, their energy is still here. But as they have been here on this planet for such a long time, they too have developed a type of identity, they have developed a type of personality. And it is not them doing it, it was you doing it to them!

So many have listened to the Kryon, so many have listened to beings like the group, or Da Ojadasan'ka Adamus Valen San, or me, so many others. Da Michael San, for instance. And in that process of listening, in that process of trying to become aware of what was being said, identity was given to the words.

This has been a mental process of trying to understand spiritual information from the heart, which is impossible. Now we all foresaw this, we knew that this would happen, that we would come into the planet as a free being and that we would slowly yet firmly be defined. Same thing happens when two people or more in an old energy world at least, start living together. You know these couples, they have been living together for 30 years or 40 years, and if you see their pictures from a long, long time ago, you see two unique energies, and after all those years, you basically see the same people.

It is not that they have learnt how to let go of separation, they are still separate, their mind however has become so attuned, the ego has become so attuned to one another, that they are basically the same ego, inhabiting two bodies now. And since the ego likes definition, you see sometimes these changes even take place on the outside. You see it in the way they dress, in the way they act, the little tics that they might have, even the haircuts and everything. You see these people blending, and then every body goes, 'oh it is so beautiful to see that you have been together for 40 years, and then to see how beautiful you have become one,' Oh no, what has happened is that the prison of the mind, the prison walls have just gotten thicker. A wall in between might have been taken away, so that the ego now resides together, but there has been no real letting go of separation.

The same thing can be said for us, as we came into the planet, as we chose to work with you, which is our highest calling as a sovereign servant, we too, have been influenced and affected by that which you call the mind. How could this happen, you might ask, Da Pah Ekara San tell me. How could it happen that a sovereign being, a cosmic master, comes into the planet and spreads teachings about being sovereign, about letting go the illusions, about letting go of the mind, about letting go of the ego and that this being then slightly starts to identify with those who are being taught? It is very simple, it is very simple. In order to explain it, I am going to have to talk again about DNA. I am not going to give you a scientific explanation, I am going to use the same poetry that I have used before.

More About DNA

Humans see their DNA as separate from each other. They see their DNA as these two little strands running through the body, telling you if you should be healthy or sick, telling you basically how long you have to live. And if that were to be the case then your DNA strands, the two DNA strands that are left would be your prison wards. They would tell you what you may and may not do. They will tell you when or if the body fails, and when death occurs. Interesting!

But, you know now that there is much more to DNA, the great cosmic, magnetic master that is Da Kryon San has told you so much about this. Many other beings have told you so much about it as well, including myself. But, what nobody truly understands yet is the way magnetics is really going to work. And magnetics and DNA, as you know, are very closely connected. Magnetics and gravity are also very closely connected. Gravity and light are connected. Light, and sound and color, as you know, are connected. So you could say that within the DNA is the color of your soul, is the light of your being, is the sound of your purest essence, and either it pulls you down or it raises you up, doesn't it?

Well, in all the teachings that we have provided you with in the last few years now, your DNA has began listening to us and as our song was sung, which happens in the stillness that you can find if you go beyond these words, the song of the DNA has started to sing back. You see... see, the DNA has no ego. A singer for instance often time does, they do not like to be on stage with two of them, they like to have the entire stage to themselves so their song can be heard and the applause is only theirs. But the DNA, which you could call your performing artist to create your body, supporting you as you, the main artist is creating your life. DNA has no ego, it likes to sing together with others, it likes to blend, and so as we have been singing our song in all of those years towards your DNA, the DNA has started to pick this up, and it is beginning to sing back to us.

And you know what, dear master, it is at that point that we realized that we were being affected by you. It is at that point that we realized - all of us - that we were catching the human virus of mind and ego, so to speak. Not that we do not know what to do with this. It does not really affect us, it is just there. But the ego that is part of the unified mind has started to pull us in. And this is one of the reasons why free energy had to be created, and we cannot be responsible for its creation, only you can. We can be the teachers but you are the ones taking the test. And the test of life is all around you.

So as the DNA began singing back to us we knew that something was starting to happen. A shift was starting to take place, in all of humanity, not just in those who would listen to this information, not just in those who would read the information. A shift started taking place all around the world, stretching interdimensionally back and forth through time, reaching Lemuria, reaching Avalon, reaching in fact the eleven other planets of free choice and the eleven other universes in which these planets reside, reaching all of it, becoming one with all of it again.

There is something that I, Da Pah Ekara San, must tell you, and you may not particularly like it. I am going to tell it anyway, for you need to hear it. There is going to be a moment in your time-space continuum when I, all the others, and all that energy that you have called guiding energy is going to have to leave you for just a moment in time, just one moment, but it is an eternity. And some have already begun as you know, the Michael energy has already left. The Kryon energy has delivered its last message at current and has now left, although the energy in some way still resides on the planet. It is the same with death: somebody dies on this planet, an aspect of that person, an aspect of that energy, will always remain present with Da Gaia San. Da Gaia San is like a mother who can never fully and completely let her children go. Even when they fly out of the house to make a life of their own, she will always leave the pictures of you when you were a child, so to speak, somewhere near the fireplace, to remember you, to send you love everlasting. And she does the same thing with us, she does the same thing. So an aspect of us is always going to be here, even in that moment that we have to fully let go of you. If we do not do this two things cannot happen: one, you can't grow up and two, we can't grow up!

Let me explain these things a little bit further: one - I like linearity! - one, you can't grow up. What does this mean? I told you about the DNA singing, singing to us, and in such a way affecting us as well. Because your DNA, the two first strands of it, are still linked to that which you call the unified mind, to that which you call the unified ego even, showing up in your bodies. So as the DNA started singing back, elements of this started connecting to us. You know that the DNA is magnetic and you know about the electromagnetic field of planet Earth. Now you could say that the electro aspect of the electromagnetic field is energy, but it is energy the way you have always known it, energy flowing forward in time.

Akeneic Energy

This is not Akeneic energy. An Akeneic energy is that which you are going to start working with next year. It is already coming in very slowly in the neutral neurons of your brain. Slowly the divinity is becoming one with you, is being born again in more than just your own Akeneic center. So as this Akeneic energy, which we will now label 'Akenergy,' will come into your being, you will begin to understand the true nature of the Akeneic magnetic field. It is a totally different way of looking at magnetics and as such, it is a totally different way of looking at your DNA.

Some, like Da Kryon San, have told you already that your DNA is a super conductor, you know this now, that electricity and as such magnetics actually flows through it. And you were told that the magnetics of your DNA created a loop within the DNA. I, however, have told you prior to this message now that your DNA is not in a loop, it is in a spiral. It is the same thing like Da Jeshua San has previously explained to you.

If you are looking at a... like let's say a plate, and you are looking at the plate from a horizontal perspective, just the plate right in front of you, and you looking at its surface, you just see a circle. What you are learning now is to change your angle of perception, to change your point of you. And that means that you will see that as this plate starts turning, that you see that it is not just a circle, it is a spiral.

Now what we have not previously explained however is - and I am doing my best here as I am reminded by Da Adama San that I would keep this poetic, doing my best to do that. What I have not explained to you before is where this spiral is going to. It is going to each and every other person, thing, animal, throughout space, throughout time. Your DNA in this fashion through Akeneic, magnetic energy is connected to all life, all of it! It is very difficult to grasp but within you, we have always said that within you lives the entire universe and all the other universes around it. And this is the way it happens.

Your DNA then, is not just something that is creating your body, your DNA is something that is creating All That Is, and it is in essence Akeneic, which means divine. Your DNA is literally a blueprint of all existence. And you as a person are just a point of view, or as we have said before, a point of you. If you begin to understand this fully and completely, then you will begin to understand the potential, the possibility that is waiting for you.

What this all really entails: that you can be anywhere, anytime, that you want to be, and in fact you already are. It is not something that you can do, it is something that you are doing. But - some will be very pleased that this is still going on about illusion - it is the illusions that are keeping you from actually experiencing that.

The Cleverness of the Prison of Mind

So you must grow up as we said, and we must grow up as well. As your DNA, is again remembering that it can sing to one another, that it can sing to the DNA of the other person, it will learn again that there is no separation between itself and the other person. For what has been driving the DNA prior to this moment? Your ego. It is your ego that has told your DNA it just exists out of 2 strands and not 144.

This is the cleverness of your prison. Nothing has been taken away from you. All that has happened is that you have been untrained to remember who you truly are, you see? It is a full brainwash that has taken place, so you do not even remember that you are all connected. And you have learned to celebrate this, poor you. We hope that this Illusionary party is soon going to be over. For it is not something that you should celebrate at all. It is something that you should shy away from, that you should no longer accept.

So as we, very soon, will have to take our leave of you for just a moment, which is eternal, you will be given the opportunity to start singing to one another yet again, without our intervention. And I have told you just now that everything around you is made up of light, and sound, and color. So how then do you let go of separation? By recognizing your own light in the other, by recognizing your own sound in the other, and by recognizing the fullness of your color spectrum within the other as well.

It is not because you have been working on, let's say degree 15 of your spectrum, and the other has been working on degree 35, that you are not working with the same colors. You are working with the same colors. You are working with the same spectrum. It is the illusions that have told you that this is not so and that is why you have created desire. That is why you are working with expectation, for you have been trained that you are this one degree of the spectrum. You are not! Your body, as I have told you before and before, is all around you. And it is everybody that you see, everything that you see, every animal, and everything that you experience.

A great teacher by the name of Da Buddha San, has once said: 'you are not the thing that happens, you are the space in which it happens.' As such you are not just your body, you are the space in which your body experiences itself. You see this. And as the DNA will start singing again, an undefinable connection will once again be made, an undefinable connection.

You know what happens when you have one person singing, and the other person singing as well, two voices become one, and in this oneness sometimes, if they are very attuned to one another, you can't even hear what part of the song is the first voice, and what part is the second voice. This is what is happening to you again, it is going to become one song, and as such the spiral of your DNA goes to all of these other parts of the song, all of these other voices, which basically are your voice. Much like you can choose to speak in this tone, or you can choose to speak with a high voice, which thank God, I am not going to do right now, I almost did, not going to do that. So you see how this works!

The reason why we have to leave you is so that you can begin to sing together again. And you are not looking towards us. You will have one moment within all eternity that you will have nothing else to look to than each other. There will be no God left outside of you, there will be no divinity, or no master, or no teacher, anything left outside of you! And in that moment your DNA, and your soul, your I Am, will have no other option than to look towards each other again. Probably, dear human, probably for the very first time in hundreds of thousands of years.

Even in Lemuria, you were not fully, we were not fully looking at each other anymore, even there. Even there, expectations started to be created. You have heard the story of myself and of Da Eja'e San. And even though we had the ability of speaking to All Things, to the Heart of All Things, we still saw ourselves in a way as being separate. We saw ourselves as a one, and another one. Not a two, but another one. But it was another one, it was not the same one, although we did still recognize ourselves within that other.

This is something unique then that is going to happen, and then the second part of the reason why we must disconnect for just a moment, is that we can reboot ourselves as well. For all those thousands of years, slowly the mind has gotten closer to us as well. And we need the ability to step with you, all of you into this free energy, that you and I together, you and I, and all of us together, are creating. That is why we have to return to this that you call the Central Sun for just a moment of time, to be purified, neutralized, once again.

You might not fully recognize us as we come back. We might sound a little bit different because the expectations that you have will have been erased, and we will no longer - how shall I say - live up to those expectations. You have to admit, so many within your group of spiritual artists who live throughout this planet, have their favorite entity they like to listen to and then they will say, 'oh I love the way Da Kryon San comes in with his 'greetings,' or I love the way he, or she, or she comes in and uses this. It is personality, is it not? It is identity, is it not? And it is you creating the expectation, for we, in essence, are all neutral. So we have taken on these personalities willingly, at least then you would listen to us. It would have been very hard to hear us, let alone see us, if we did not do this, if we had not done this in the past.

Entering a State of Neutrality

But now you are ready to grow up, and we are ready to grow up with you yet again, which means entering into a state of neutrality. Neutrality, which is not so neutral as you might think. Neutrality, which is not the neutrality that you know in your dictionaries. We will speak about this in a future point in time, may be sooner than you think. But we will speak about it, why this neutrality is not the neutrality that you know. It is still filled with color, it is still filled with light, and still filled with sound. And you still have the ability to choose which color spectrum, part of the color spectrum, and which part of the light spectrum, and which part of the auditory spectrum, you might combine to create this beauty.

And you will see that you will use the elements to do that, and that you will pour this through the field of Akeneic magnetic energy. And that that is what is going to be creating the now moment, and that that is going to be going as a ripple.

So the best analogy right now that I can give you about Akeneic space and Akeneic time is that you are not on a timeline. If you have a pond for instance of water, of still water, you might want to put your finger in the pond and just draw a line, and the line might have an effect on other timelines that are around it, as you walk time through walking space. That is the way you have always done it, and you never had the ability to look back. Akeneic existence then, is going to be taking a stone and throwing that stone into the pond, and you will see the concentric circles come out of it. Even the field of magnetics that you have known so far was based on duality. For it was not one circle that was being created, they were two circles. You had a positive pole and you had a negative pole.

Now with Akeneic magnetics you have no more poles, you just have divinity, which is the center, and then the concentric circles will start to spread from there, creating your past in that moment and creating your future in that moment, which is not a past and a future at all. And this is what the poet does when a work of art and mastery is truly being created. He or she lifts him or herself above the timeline and becomes divine, becomes Akeneic. And throws within humanity and human existence, a stone of art, a work of art that will have its ripple effects throughout history.

You might not think that your artists, who have always kind of been neglected by your governments and by those who are in the business life, have such a wonderful effect on humanity. You might not understand how, for instance, the Berlin wall fell, or how so many tragedies have been avoided. It is because of these artists that sometimes have created a thing of such undefinable beauty, that it went as a ripple, an Akeneic ripple throughout your time and space, and erased some of the things that might have happened otherwise. And that is the reason why some of your scripture and some of your prophecy has not come true, it is because of your artists.

So maybe, now you are sitting at the end of an era, literally, and at the beginning of a new era almost, it is time for you to start looking back, just for once, throughout your timeline. I am not asking you to step back into the past, I would never say such a monstrosity, I am asking you to remain in the now, and in that now to find these gifts, these divine gifts that have been put there like pearls throughout time. Poems, paintings, stories, all types of art. And it is bigger than you think. Love is a work of art.

There have been those like Da Theresa San, Mother Teresa, or Mother Amma San, or Da Gandhi San, so many others who have given you the work of art of Akeneic, universal love that has rippled through your timeline. Now is the time to find the truth behind these messages, for they are as much a messenger as, I, Da Pah Ekara San, and so many others, have been. Find the truth in there now and you will see a true celebration of humanity.

You Have Always Been the Artist

It is for no other reason than this that these things, music for instance, will be remaining on the Akenet, as this Akenet is being created again, being activated again, because these things are the only pure things. Not based on Akash, but based on Akonai, that have been brought forth by humanity.

And this my loves, is the reason why humanity has survived, why the human test is still going on. You know, when these angelic beings came to the planet Earth, millions of years ago when the earth was still a molten lava source, starting to become defined, and when they blended with it, and when they took on shape, as such lowered their vibration, and forgot who they were, forgot that they were the angels sent in, parts of god sent in, parts of spirit sent in. The first thing that they did was to create the work of art that you are walking on every single day. And the name of that work of art would turn out to be Da Gaia San.

So you see, you have always been the artists, even though you might think, dear human listening to these messages, or looking at me right now, you might think that you are a businessman, you might think that you are but a housewife, you might think that you are a prisoner, for I know somebody here is listening who is in prison, you might think that you are all of these boring things, and that that is the high point of your existence. No! You are the artist and you are still a reflection of those angels that began this work of art that is the field of experience that you call Da Gaia San, that became conscious because of it.

You know that every work of art, in truth, carries a consciousness with it? It is alive. That is why a poem or a piece of music can touch you the way it does. It isn't only alive, it has no personality, so it is divine, much like Da Gaia San, who has no personality.

Those in the past who might have listened to channeled messages by Da Gaia San know this, and that is why Da Gaia San always makes you cry, she makes us cry too. She has no personality.

So if you want to look for an example of that which you are going to become, if you might be afraid of this what the future might entail, and everything is going to change, listen to this Gaia energy. I recommend it highly. That is where you are going to, that exact energy is basically neutral. And it is filled with love, and it is filled with joy, and it is filled with freedom, and she is in love with you. You will be in love with you once again, I promise this. The biggest pain that we have had to see humanity here, as we were walking among you, is to see that you were not in love with you sometimes. In honor of Da Kryon San, I will say this: blessed is the human who is in love with him or herself, for they are Divine!

And with that my beloved brothers and sisters, I have given you a message of little over an hour that will tie into the series of 'Mastering Your Grand Illusions.' And as you will listen to this series again when it is complete, you will understand that in what I have said now, you will find the core of mastery towards these Grand Illusions.

Never forget who you truly are. Never forget that you are love, that you are joy, that you are freedom, and at that is the simplicity of the Heart of All Things. You are nothing else than that. Everything else that has been told to you in your prior existence is a lie.

And with that I will now give you a moment of reflection. Use this moment, as I am going out again, use this moment to experience a sense of totality. Use this moment to let your DNA, which is your essence, sing towards one another and do it with your eyes, do it with your ears, with your nose, with your mouths, if possible. Do it with your senses, but do it from a perspective of the heart. You are loved.

And so it is.
